DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of species II (figures 8-9) in the reply filed on 10-12-2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that a thorough search would encompass a search for the remaining species and therefore there examination can be made without a serious burden. This is not found persuasive because the searches are not the same and while the search may overlap the search would be burdensome and longer because the examiner would need to search for each distinct inventions or variations. Furthermore, the search is only part of the examination process, the MPEP 803 states "If the search and examination of an entire application ..." (underline added) can be made without serious burden". The examination of the application would be burdensome because the examiner would be required to apply art and rejections to each distinct and different species of invention.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 4-14 and 19 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 10-12-2006

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

4. Claims 1 and 15-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The following terms lacks proper antecedent basis: Claim 1: "outer face", "inner face"

In claim 1, the phrase "comprises at least two elastically deformable components or parts corresponding respectively to two lateral points of bearing on the ground" is unclear and indefinite. By the use of the alternative expression "or" it is not clear if applicant is claiming the two elastically deformable components.

In claim 2, the "dynamic support element" lacks proper antecedent basis

Claim 15 is not understood since it appears to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 3728

6. Claims 1-3 and 15-18, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by each of the following: US 6393731 (Moua et al), US 6282814 (Krafsur et al) and US 4592153 (Jacinto).

Each of these patents (Moua, Krafsur and Jacinto) teach a shoe having structure as claimed including plates and elastically deformable elements (i.e. springs or rubber elements) incorporated between the plates in an arch and front part of the sole which represent a dynamic support element. The dynamic support element store and release energy when said sole is subject to lateral stresses.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

8. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

-“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

--“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

-Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims. Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06” MPEP 714.02. The “disclosure” includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
